Bewährungs- und
Gerichtshilfe

 Do you want to live a life without criminal offences? We will help you to do so.

We will contact you in one week after your release at the latest.

Leadership supervision

Leadership supervision means: You get a probation officer.

This happens in two cases:

- When you have a probation sentence.
- If the court suspects that you will commit another criminal offense.

The court then appoints a probation officer for you.

Instructions

You can be given tasks by the court.

They are also called instructions.

- For example:
- You must go for a counseling session at a counseling center.
 - You have to be tested for drugs.
 - You must keep appointments.

- For example, with your psychotherapist.
- You must stay away from certain things.
For example, certain people or places.

What do probation officers do?

- We help you.
- We will show you how to perform the tasks instructed by the court.
- We advise you when you have problems.
- We advise you in dealing with authorities.
- We inform you about further offers of help.
- We are discreet.
- We talk to you about your crime.

We have these duties:

- We have to write a report for the court and the management supervisory body.
- It says whether you are complying with all the duties.
- We testify as witnesses if you are charged again.
- We sometimes have to inform the authorities.

Your leadership supervision is successful if:

- you do not commit a new criminal offence.
- you fulfil the tasks instructed by the court.
- you keep the appointments and agreements with your probation officer.

Your leadership supervision can be extended if:

- you commit a new criminal offense.
- you do not fulfill the assignments from the court.
- you do not keep appointments with your probation officer.
